Some History of the Shaw Family.

The original inhabitants of Scotland were Celts. Due to the many incursions of the country in ancient times there were many Goths and Tutons among the inhabitants, also many mixtures of these bloods. There were sixty-five clans when the country was still independent. Of these the MacIntoshes, Chattans, Campbells and Alpines were the most prominent and strongest.

Chiefs drank a drop of each others blood as a token of allegiance. In some clans the right hand of a boy was left unbaptized to do greater deeds in battle. To notify the clansmen to assemble or battle a half burned cross, dipped in goat's blood, was sent out.

A tartan is a garment. Plaid is the color distribution. Seven colors for a king, six for a priest, five for a chief of clan, four for others, except shepherds, who have two, black and white.

The sackbut (of the bible) is the bagpipe. Before the Scotch adopted it they had the harp.

The name SHAW is of very ancient origin. Many meanings of the word have been given. A probable origin is the now archaic common noun shaw, from the middle English schawe derived from the Anglo-Saxon scaga, which means a thicket or small wood. It was perhaps assumed as a surname by someone who lived in such a place. There is evidence, however, that some Scottish families of the name acquired it from the ancient Gaelic "Seach," which means proud or princely. There have been various spellings, as Schaghe, Schagh, Schaw and in the town records Little Compton it appears as Sha in the third and fourth generations. Lt. A. N. Spencer, Ret'd, U. S. N., states that when he was on the Oregon there was an old Chief Boatswain named Shov, who claimed that his Scandinavian name was the original from which Shaw came. The fact that the Norsemen raided and settled in the British Isles makes it possible, and might also for the old English schawe.

The first Shaw of record was Seach (or Shaw) MacDuff, founder of the MacIntosh clan. He was the second son of the fifth earl of Fife. His descendants adopted Shaw as the family name. He held the office of cup bearer to King Malcolm IV. of Scotland, and the three covered cups on the Shaw coat of arms record that fact. He was with Malcolm in 1163, when he went to the north country to suppress an insurrection, and as a reward was made Governor of the Castle of Inverness. Malcolm also granted him the Province of Moray. He established his seat at Rothimurcus on the Spey, in Inverness, where the chief of this clan resided for centuries.

Among the early records in England appears Richard de la Shaw, in Lancaster in 1271. John atte Schaghe lived in Somerset in 1327. Johannea del Schagh was in Lancastershire in 1379. John, a descendent, spelled his name Shay. Of this line, Nicholas Shaw, who died in 1606, left a wife Beatrice, five sons and several daughters. A son was the father of two daughters and a son, Anthony. It is possible, although there is no proof of it, that this Anthony was the progenitor of the American family recorded in this pamphlet. William Shaw lived in Hayley, Ayrshire, prior to 1291. In Lancastershire William Shaw, whose seat was Shaw Hall, married Jane Farrington about 1590. The famous Ballygally castle in County Antrim, Ireland, was built in 1625 by James Shae, who went to Ireland to seek his fortune, and evidently found it. Sir Walter Scott was descended from the Shaws of Sauchie.

"Historical Memoirs of the House and Clan MacIntosh and of the Clan Chattan," by Alexander MacIntosh Shaw, is on file in the library of Inverness, Scotland. The following was extracted from it by Robert C. Shaw (X) in 1938.

Origin of the MacIntosh Family. 1161-63. Expedition of King Malcolm, attended by

I. Shaw or Seach, second son of Duncan MacDuff, fifth Earl of Fife. This Shaw was called "Mac-an-Toiseach," on account of his high descent. The word means "son of the foremost man," and the designation continued to be applied to his descendants.

He died in 1179 and was succeeded by his eldest son:

- II. Shaw. Died 1210. Succeeded by his eldest surviving son:
- III. Farquard. Died 1240. Succeeded by his brother's son:
- IV. Shaw. Died 1265. Succeeded by
- V. Farquard. Died 1274. During his chieftainship the Clan received the first recorded accession to its strength from without, in the person of Cabrai, progenitor of the Clan Macgillivray. Farquard left two infant sons and was succeeded by the elder.
- VI. Angus MacIntosh.

Who the original Clan Chattan were, whether of native Celtic, Gothic or Tutenic stock is wrapped in uncertainty. But in 1291 Dougal Dall was chief of this clan. His only daughter, Eva, was married to Angus MacIntosh. (IV above.)

Tribes and families of the Clan Chattan, other than the MacIntoshes:

- 1. Those of the blood of the original clan, viz: Macphersons, Chattenachs, Macphails, Macbeans and Davidson.
- 2. Those springing from MacIntoshes: Shaws, Farquarsons
- 3. Those not connected by blood with either: Macgillivrays, Macquens, Tarrils, Clan Andrish. Smiths or Gows, Macleans, of Docegaroch and Clarks.

Of the three clans springing from the Macintoshes Clan Shaw is the most ancient. The founder of this clan was Shaw, son of Gilchrist, son of John, second son of Angus MacIntosh, (IV) above and his wife, Eva. So:

- VII. John, second son of Angus.
- VIII. Gilchrist, son of John.
- IX. Shaw, son of Gilchrist. This founder of the Shaw Clan, 9th generation from the fifth Duke of Fife, was in very important positions. He headed the thirty champions at the battle of Perth, 1396, and for his valor was given the lands Rothimurcus. Died in 1405.
- X. James, killed at Harlow, 1411. His eldest son,
- XI. Alexander.
- XII. John succeeded about 1495.
- XIII. Alan. Sold Rothimurcus to the Gordons in 1539.
- XIV. James. His eldest son:
- XV. Alan. Outlawed for the slaying of his stepfather.

"Shaws were now a 'broken clan' and are probably denoted by the name 'Clan Chewill' in the 'Roll of Broken Clans,' in 1794." Alan's brother and associates were exiled into the Western Isles and Ireland, and thus the direct line of the Shaws of Rothimurcus became extinct in the country. The name springs up again with James Shaw. It is not known who he was. He was succeeded by James, and he by Duncan, the latter about 1710.

In Invernesshire is an ancient cemetery wherein Shaws have been buried for a thousand years. The name was originally Shau and is stated to signify "a tuft of grass." The present head of the family in Scotland is Shaw-Grant. Grants are Clan Alpine.

4 The tradition of the Shaws in America, handed down by their respective ancestors, is that they originated in the highlands of Scotland, from which many Shaws fled during the reign of Charles I. of England (1625-29), who attempted to substitute the church of England for the Presbyterian, in Scotland, and many other arrogant acts. This accounts for the Shaws migrating to America, at least in part, to Ireland and Germany. In 1915 there was a Shaw living in Galveston, Texas, who was a typical German, in appearance and broken speech. He had migrated from Germany and stated that an ancestor several generations back had gone there from Scotland.

Antiquarians and genealogists assent to the tradition that the Shaws are descended from MacDuff, the Earl of Fife or Thane of Shakespearian fame, who aided Malcolm III, the rightful heir to the Scottish throne, in overthrowing Macbeth in 1056-7. Malcolm, in return for these services, granted in solemn covenant the following unusual privileges:

1. To always be at the head of the Scottish army in campaign.
2. To place the crown on the head of the king at coronation.
3. If he or any member of his family killed another he would be given sanctuary by paying atonement to the family.

There were a number of Shaws who came to America in the seventeenth century. Edward in Duxbury, in 1632. Robert was in court 1632. John in 1627. Buried at Plymouth. Abraham, who owned coal mines in Halifax, England, 1636. A great great-grandson, Lemuel, was the "great chief justice of Massachusetts." Roger, Thomas in 1636. Thomas, John, James in the 1640s. Fernald and ANTHONY married in the 1650s- the first American record of them.

The Biographical Cyclopedia of Rhode Island states, Vol. 4, page 2040: The Shaws have been a Rhode Island family, largely a Little Compton family, for 250 years, descendents of Anthony Shaw, who was in Boston as early as 1653, April 8th of which year he married Alice Stonard. The first three of his children were of Boston birth. Mr. Shaw bought property at Portsmouth, R. I. in 1665. April 20 he bought a house and ten acres of land of Philip Tabor, for forty pounds and 300 good boards. In 1669 he became a "freeman" of Portsmouth. May 10, 1675 he was bound over for good behavior. On October 27, 1677 he recovered five shillings in a suit against Edward Marshall of Warnick. In 1680 he paid taxes of nine shillings, six pence. He was on a coroner's jury in 1684, regarding the suspicious death of an Indian slave: "You being of the Coroner's Jury for our Soverryn Lord and Kinge you shall well and truly make dilligent Iquirie how and in what manner an Indian hoo is found deead in the Towne of Portsmouth on Rodch Island came to his death and make A true Return of your vardit thereon unto the Corrone." "Upon Indian lad of Widow Fish he being found dead in ye woods - we find - that he murdered himself being found upon the ground with a walnut peeling hanging over him upon A lim of a tree." October 1, 1705 an inventory of his property, by his son Israel, showed a cow, a grindstone, silver money nine pence, bills due 165 pounds, 11 shillings 8 pence, a negro man 30 pounds, pewter, brass, an old horse very lame ten shillings.

Descendents of Anthony Shaw.

I. Anthony Shaw's children were:

William, b. Jan. 21, 1654 at Boston. d. Mar. 1654.

William, b. Feb. 24, 1655 at Boston.

Elizabeth, b. May 21, 1656 at Boston.

° Israel, b. 1660 at Portsmouth.

Ruth, b. at Portsmouth,

Grace, b. 1666 at Portsmouth.

Ruth and John Cook's children: Ruth and John.

Grace and Joseph Church's children were: Joseph, Sarah, Nathaniel, Alice, Deborah, Elizabeth, Caleb, Richard and Israel. Nathaniel, Caleb, Joseph, Deborah is a line of descent of President Roosevelt, Deborah having married Warren Delano.

II. Israel Shaw married "a Tollman." Otis Wilber, in his copy of the records, states that Israel was born in 1660, married in 1689, but does not give the name of his wife, does not give the date of his death nor the source of his information.--L. E. Wilbur, Town Clerk, Little Compton, R. I. (Probably from tombstones and family records.) Their children were:

- ° William, b. Nov. 7, 1690. at Little Compton, R.I.
- Mary, b. Feb. 17, 1692. m. Jonathan Blackman.
- Anthony, b. Jan. 29, 1694. m. Rebekah Wood.
- Alice, b. Nov. 7, 1695. m. John Palmer
- Israel, b. Aug. 28, 1697. m. Abigail Palmer.
- Hannah, b. Mar. 7, 1699. m. William Wood.
- Jeremiah, b. June 6, 1700. m. Phebe Wilbur.

- Peter, b. Oct. 6, 1704. m. Sarah Brown.
- Elizabeth, b. Feb. 7, 1706. m. Giles Brownell.
- Grace, b. Oct. 20, 1707. m. Edward Church.
- Comfort, b. Apr. 9, 1709. m. John Simons.
- Deborah, b. July 15, 1711.

The children of Anthony and Rebekah were Benjamin, (whose Sylvanus was a captain in the Revolutionary War), Mary, Ruth, Anthony, Elizabeth, Rebekah, Arnold, Thomas and John.

The children of Israel and Abigail were Lemuel, Blake, Parthenia, Eunice, Lois, Lillie, Meribah, Israel, Lois and Seth.

The children of Jeremiah and Phebe were Jedediah, Ruth, Jeremiah, Priscilla, Benanuel, Prudence, and Phebe.

The children of Peter and Sarah were Mary, Antipas, Peter, Alice, Anna, David, Ruth, Noah, Sarah,

All the foregoing, excepting Anthony, and his children, and the last two children of V. William, were born at Little Compton, as shown by the town records. This William "went west" to New York state, where no vital statistics were kept until after the Civil War. But the county records show that he bought a farm there and then, in 1801, he bought a farm at Worcester in the same county. The next year he bought a farm at Warren, Herkimer county. Nothing further is known about him. There are many Shaws in that section today, but none are known who trace their ancestry back to V. William.

VI. ^{W.}*Charles Shaw married Sarah Baker of Herkimer county in 1811. In 1822 they had a farm in Danube township. In 1829 he sold his farm at Whitesboro, Oneida county. Their children:

Lucinda, b. Sept. 21, 1812. d. June 5, 1833.

Ann Maria, b. Mar. 1, 1814.

Thomas B., b. Jan. 15, 1816. b. Apl. 20, 1843.

Gardner, b. Apl. 3, 1831. d. 1832.

Andrew Jackson, b. Dec. 9, 1833. d. Apl. 26, 1868.

Charles and Sarah lived with their daughter, Ann Maria Norton in their old age, at Clayton, Mich.

VII. Ezekiel Shaw married Sarah Ann Carmichael in 1845, at Edwardsburg, Mich. She had come from Martinsburg, Va. with her father, three sisters and eight brothers. Ezekiel was a Methodist preacher and, as a side line or as previous occupations, was a druggist, a tailor and a daguerreotypist. His early death left his widow with four small children and no income. She supported the family by "taking in sewing" until the two older boys went to work when they ^{were} eight or nine years old and ^Agave some help. Their children were:

Edwin O., b. July 21, 1846. d. Jan. 12, 1913.

Clara Jane, b. May 3, 1848. d. Sept. 21, 1934.

P. T. Barnum. Where he lived and whether or not he married and had children is not known. In the petition mentioned under Thomas B. Shaw (page 13) he is not mentioned.

VII-7. Ezekiel. See page 6.

VII-8. Gardner died in infancy.

VII-9. Andrew Jackson. Shirley (Haney) Masten recalls that her mother told of Andrew living in his brother Ezekiel's home but when not known. It must have been before 1849, because in that year he was in California. Alice (Spencer) Townsend states that her mother recieved a letter from him, dated Sutter's Gulch, which informed that he was doing well panning gold and he and Esperanza were in good health. The History of Placer County mentions an Andrew Sampson Shaw, who died at Alta Vista Dec. 13, 1875. It states he came from Massachusetts.

Kittie (Shaw) Wolfe states that her mother mentioned many times that her mother often spoke of two brothers of her husband who went to California and said one of them changed his name.

The other might have been Charles W., as the old War Department records show a Charles Shaw in the 2nd Dragoon, stationed in California. He enlisted in New York City, Jan. 5, 1839, when our Charles was 17. It could be he.

There are many names which are Shaw, with a prefix or suffix. It would be interesting to learn how they developed. Some that have been noted follow.

Shawcross	Shawg	Shawhan	Shawk	Shawkey
Shawl	Shawley	Shawmut	Shawn	Shawnahan
Shawson	Shawver	Shawaker	Shawen	Shawlison
Shawinican	Shawivry	Shawtan	Shawzin	Shawen
Shawger	Shawker	Shawinigan
Babshaw	Bagshaw	Belshaw	Bradshaw	Branshaw
Branshaw	Brookshaw	Bruckshaw	Burnshaw	Bunshaw
Burtonshaw	Crankshaw	Crashaw	Collishaw	Crenshaw

Samuel Shaw, who was an aide on the staff of General Knox during Revolutionary War, was our first Consul to China. Before the war he had a quarrel with a Lieut. Wragg of Gen. Pitcairn's staff and challenged him to a duel. Gen. Pitcairn learned of it and ordered Wragg to apologize. After the war, when the officers met, at the expressed wish of General Washington, to organize the Society of the Cincinnati, he was made secretary, and it is said he made the first draft of its constitution. A descendent is the present Assistant Secretary of State of the U. S., Hon. G. Howland Shaw of Boston.
